Stolen Cars Returned to Owners

Detectives Still at Work

The campaign of inspecting and recovering automobiles alleged to have been stolen in Massachusetts continues. Philip Wheeler of the Automobile Union writes "Detective Agency of Boston" that the State Police of Norway and State Police George W. of Norway. As fast as the cars are located, they are driven to Ripley & Flier's garage at South Paris and given thorough examination by mechanics. Many cases numbers have been changed by persons familiar with the game, other things done to destroy the identity of the machines.

Some twenty-one enclosed cars, from Norwalk, have been seized, all were taken to the garage at South Paris. Frank Coffin of Berlin, N. H., and Culbert of Welchville, who disclaim knowledge that the machines were stolen from Fargo dealer, was turned over to the State Police.

There is strong evidence that the reached Oxford County through the reach of an organized auto stealing syndicate probably in Massachusetts, which agents were tricked by a smooth story apparently good faith.

Several cars have been identified by the State Police and forwarded to their first owners.

The first of the cars, which was in Boston and purchased by Donald E. Chase of Newburyport, was turned over to Boston insurance company.

A sedan, which was purchased in faith by Edward M. Bean of South Portland, was also returned to its owner. Frank Preston, representing the Insurance company and belonged to one Chasmon, 67 Evergreen Ave., Avon, Mass.

Another car, which State police took from Lewis Millist of Oxford owned by C. G. Sander, 84 Gorham St., Bangor, Maine, was turned over back of Keith-Abbe Theatre in Portland.

Four cars were turned over to a Bethel insurance company. The first was taken from Edmund Edmonds of South Paris. It was a stolen car found to be the property of Walter M. Boland, Bangor, and was turned over had been under temporary ownership of Harold Millet of South Paris, to have been stolen on August 9.

Bethel, Maine, and was turned over which was taken by the State police Mrs. Christine Leavitt Crockett, formerly a trained nurse, of Norway, proprietor of the Bethel Hotel, was turned over to Mr. Robertson, Bethel, and was March 28. The fourth car turned to the Boston men was a sedan which had been in the hands of John M. Frye. It was found to have been from John M. Devine, Roxbury, of 20, George Hollis of South Paris, Maine, and was turned over to the Lumberman's Casualty Co., and E. J. Stone, Mechanic Falls, temporary owner, relinquished his auto to London & Lancaster, Inc., of Canton.

John Andrews, of Canton, Philip Wheeler of the Insurance Detective Agency and Highway Police of Maine, and Leavitt, Crockett, and Frye, inspecting cars in Oxford and Mechanic Falls. The automobiles in were closed Fordes and owned by Harry Deane, Oyster Bay, N. B. Fred Martin, William McAllister, Lapham, George W. Tyner, all of Ford; Dana H. Hamlin, Otisfield, and George B. Walker of M. Walcott.

No seizures were made at the time the present owners are on the road. The cars were turned over to Bethel on Thursday.

The outlet of Lake Pennesseewassee in Norway, better known as Cummings mill pond, marks the birthplace of Norway's earliest industries.

This spot was the industrial center of the township until the settlement expanded down stream with more pretentious mills and factories to attract business. For nearly one hundred and forty years, since the Revolutionary War, there has been no least part time activity around the outlet.

Electric motors have succeeded the turbine and its ancestor, the crude wooden wheel, so today the mill pond is only a storage basin and landing for logs.

A weather beaten saw mill on the extreme right marks the site where Capt. James H. Burrill erected a grist mill in 1739 for the settlers. History relates this was a great convenience, many settlers traveling miles along spotted trails for the privileges offered. The Ames family outmarched the Ruists, and for years the mill held a place as a lumbering center there for C. B. C. considered the best weather one person's use. The Central conjunction at Steep Lake are still the largest lumber tor board. A bu son's h

Weeks to Christmas

We are indebted to William E. DeCoursey of Somerville, Mass., for greetings from the Christmas Tree Olympia Theatre. This time he sends a "rib tickler" with instructions to "rub it over your slats to get a move on."

He further adds that we get a laugh if we take in a certain word for a time, but Parrin was the one who is showing. The tickler is a piece of word some fourteen inches long, more adapted for spanking than for rib-rubbing.

However we will try it for rib-rubbing, and get the laugh. Good word is selling for $12.00 per cord in Maine so we appreciate this donation to our pile.

The liquor hearings at the Municipal Court Room, Friday forenoon attracted the largest crowd in years. There was some standing room only in the corridor so outsiders wanted to get a look inside so there was congestion at the most important point.

Now if they are advertised last July, we could have put them in touch with a number of persons who looked as though they could melt anywhere, and no doubt would have done so on a small copper for a remuneration.

And don't be slow!
She's gotta do her hair
And powder here and there,
To set her mare;
And if we dare to peck,
Why something's bound to repeat,
Then Sister'll shriek,
And powder here and there,
Our Ma just then appears
To box our ears,
But with the door-bell rings,
As if she's sprouted wings,
Some time in the spring,
Her voice is like a fuit,
And she is in some place,
She looks so cute,

Sparks from the Fire Department

Our chemical apparatus has received its baptism of fire and we are sure that it is going to be an asset in the time of need. However, we believe that it should be driven directly to the fire, instead of down Main St., on "seeing Fryburg" tours, and also that when demonstrating the chemical hose to the people here, the stream should be directed in the vicinity of the conflagration. for their beautiful and generous gift.

Mrs. Mary Brown, Elsie Millett, Julia Moore and Katherine Stone and her friend, Miss Ruth Mary, were all home for Thanksgiving.

Miss Louise Stone, who is attending school at Farmington, spent Thanksgiving at Augusta, with Mr. and Mrs. Bowditch and their two daughters. Mrs. Bowditch will be remembered as Lucy Evelyn, who formerly came up from Portland to attend Thanksgiving with her parents and attended the church service.

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Stone ate Thanksgiving dinner with Mrs. Jane Stone.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Fuss, Mrs. Augusta Young and daughter, Blanche, of Portland, and Mr. William and Mrs. Ralph, of North Waterford, were Thanksgiving guests of L. R. Ransom; their dinner party numbered twelve.

Mr. Morse and his wife, Katherine and family, spent Thanksgiving at P. H. Morse's; James Morse of Worcester was home for the day, also Julia Morse, who was coming to the city to visit her mother and family were much enjoyed at the party, but the storm in the night was so the daughter, who is in the city, was not able to come and was disappointed.

Miss Mary and Miss Margaret Stone and Mrs. Elmer Stone, of Portland, were here at Thanksgiving.

Dr. J. C. ...

Mrs. Nellie Smith, who arrived at eight at the Thanksgiving dinner at the home of Mr. L. H. Brinkley, 1001 North Boulevard, of Bridgeton. Also at the dinner were Mrs. Katharine Smith, of Philadelphia, Pa.; Mrs. of Ipswich, Mass., Pong Kinnah of Watford.

Mrs. and Mrs. W. W. Albright were guests at Dr. Hubbard's Thanksgiving evening.

A number of people from this vicinity attended the Christmas Eve service at the Church of the Holy Trinity, 1001 North Boulevard, at South Waterford on Saturday evening; also on Monday evening there were pictures shown by Rev. H. A. Marble.

Ad in a Boston newspaper says: "Want: Man to melt on small cup." Name withheld, should think it would be hard to find anyone to qualify for the difficult position at this season of the year. Now if they had advertised the job, we could have put them in touch with a number of persons who could do the job as well as any man or woman, and no doubt would have done so on a small cupola for a remuneration. Another ad in the same paper says: "Wanted: Guaranteed first color?" and "Wanted: Guaranteed not to run." Such a funny thing to do to guarantee first color not to run. Should express our opinion that the more they run the better they would be. They would be a good deal better than the first color, and no doubt would have done so on a small cupola for a remuneration. "Chip" and "Mack" Watt are preparing to leave for sunny Florida. The Fliver Editor may go south with them—as far as Bridgton.

A new real estate manipulator has appeared on the horizon to threaten the supremacy once enjoyed by Fred Ellis, and later by the Saco Valley Realty Co. The Gray Development, T. C. Eastman and others. This latest and perhaps keevest operator is none other than our old friend, Boner C. D. Ridlon, who, with his vast Rice Hotel Annex property, bids fair to back in the limelight for some time to come.

The Fliver Editor was cordially received by Publisher Sanborn of the Advertiser, at the Advertiser Plant recently, and was also hospitably received by Mr. Sanborn's courteous and efficient corps of assistants. We express the hope that the friendly relations may continue, as it would be regrettable indeed if two representative papers like the Advertiser and Fliver were engaged in a bitter rivalry, such as some of our contemporaries seem to "enjoy."

Too Much
"Acid?"
Excess Uric Acid Gives Rise to Many Unpleasant Troubles.

AUTHORITIES agree that an excess of uric acid is primarily due to faulty kidney action. Retention of this toxic material often makes its presence felt by sore, painful joints; a tired, languid feeling and, sometimes, toxic backache and headache. That the kidneys are not functioning right is often shown by scanty or burning passage of secretions. Thousands assist their kidneys at such times by the use of Doan's Pills—a stimulant diuretic. Doan's Pills are recommended by many local people. Ask your neighbor!

Druggists Declare It is the Only Cough Balsam of Its Kind

If you were told by your druggist that he could prepare the best and quickest acting cough balsam there is, but that the price would be high because of it taking 5 hours to compound, and the ingredients expensive, you'd want that cough balsam, regardless of price, wouldn't you?

Anybody would. We all want the best. No ordinary makeshift syrups, quickly bottled like soft drinks, will do for right thinking people, when a dangerous cough has to be stopped and the patient's throat soothed.

Fortunately your druggist has on hand at the cost of only 35 cents this very cough balsam. Modern laboratory methods, large quantities, but prepared as carefully as a personal prescription enables your local druggist to sell you Adams' Botanic Cough Balsam at this popular price.

To end coughs in the quickest time, dangerous, obstinate ones at that, go to your druggist and get Adams' Botanic Cough Balsam. It is made of proven ingredients, formula on the label, that were used 60 years ago. It is the same today, no change.

Two Military Gents

Both From Oxford County, Buried in the Congressional Cemetery at Washington—The Lawyer, David Dunn

Charles Andrews was a native of Paris and a lawyer. He began practice in the town of Turner, then the first of Oxford County. He afterwards returned to his native village of Paris Hill, where he resided in the latter village he was elected to Congress and died in Washington during his term. It was next to impossible to get bodies home from such a distance in 1861, so his was buried in the Congressional Cemetery so called, in the United States.

It is a strange coincidence that another citizen of Paris Hill, a member of Congress, should die in Washington during his term and be buried in this cemetery. This citizen was Timothy J. Carter. The name, Congressional Cemetery, usually attached to this burial ground, gives rather a wrong impression. It is not a cemetery established by Congress, or one receiving endorsement from that body, but property belonging to the Episcopal Church. It was the earliest burial ground set apart in the city, and the only one in the early days of the city. Most government officials dying in Washington were interred there, and not only Americans but foreign representatives as well. One of the most notable cases was that of a French chief who died while visiting the "great father" in Washington.

David Dunn, a lawyer, although a resident of Poland, was a frequent practitioner before the Oxford County courts. He was a picturesque character to those who knew him in his later years. On his visits to Paris in these years, he was always dressed in a top hat, and he was a big, broad, frank, not of the later French Albert variety, but the earlier type of the Andrew Jackson age. His hair was topped by a tall hat of the same period, and in one hand he always carried a faded blue umbrella. Dunn had a caustic tongue and a dry, almost morose humor, and it was not until he was noted—hated and loved. Dunn had had considerable experience in the world and was thoroughly disenchanted. He knew the good and the bad and not much faith in either; but under that, when circumstances brought him to the surface, was a kindly heart and a playing one. Dunn had taken quite a part in politics. He had served in the last office department in Washington, and the legislature in Augusta. In this last place he had been speaker in the house of representatives, and by reason of that and the hand of death was the governor of Maine for a single day.

As a sample of his humor and his disposition of government officials, when he was once asked what he did when he found he was governor, said:—"When I found I was governor, I put for Poland as fast as I could, so Mrs. Dunn could live with a governor for one day."

Although Dunn knew the vanity of pomp and show, he probably loved it as other men do. In his day, they were the Knights Templar or Patriarchs Militant, where a man could dress up and parade, but there was no "string bean" in "string bean militia," where anybody could be a "string," in fact had to be a "string," had to dress in homespun and carry a pole with a spike on the end, while only a man with a brain could be an officer and dress in a blue coat with brass buttons on it and wear a hat with a feather on it.

Both Dunn and Andrews belonged to the militia, as every self-respecting man did in his day. Both were officers—the first a major and the second a colonel—and both, without the aid of the militia, as the militia below will show.

This letter was written at the close of a term of court at Paris (the date gives the year and the date of the court) nearly forty years ago among Colonel Andrews' papers by his daughter, Miss Persis Andrews.

Paris, October 13th, 1842. Dear "Kane": On adjournment of court yesterday P. M., I wished to "home depart" according to the proclamation made, and to leave in the bonds of my hat! What a stew! At first I called on the Attorney General, the grand jury, and all other officers of the court to pursue and punish the thief and, although in a great hurry, I at last concluded to be patient. Patience, he force, the Spaniard said, and wait until all was gone out and then see if all the hats would disappear, "vi et armis," or whether there would be left one for the major. After everyone had taken French leave, I saw a solitary hat standing in the midst and nobody all around. On looking at it I found it marked "O. Andrews." O Crackee! O Blazes and Scissors! Very similar to both from Allen's! Both have been in the service of our much loved country! What a train of ideas all rushed into one's mind!

"When Freedom goes up to Turner, I shall send this up marked "Please exchange" and perhaps it will be well enough, on some occasions not to say anything about it. Yours in the bonds of Love—Dunn. David Dunn, Major."

In connection with this it may be interesting to note that the writer saw the last parole of genuine "string bean" militia in Maine. It was in 1879, at the centennial exercises of the town of Paris. The men comprising the company were old men who had drilled in the old time militia days. The company was commanded by Colonel Orison Ripley and the first lieutenant was Colonel William Smead. The dress officers and men were the same as in days of yore.

The writer was shown the uniform coat worn by Thomas Crocker, of Paris, who was an ensign in 1812 and marched to the defense of Portland. It was of blue cloth, swallow-tailed, and faced with red. It was shown by his daughter, the late Mrs. Myra Snow. It was one hundred and two years old at the time, shot through with holes (not bullet holes but moth holes) but the indigo coloring was as bright as when colored—Charles E. Waterman.

TOOK GUIDE INSTEAD OF DEER

Dr. F. C. Bunn of Orange, N. J. failed to get a deer on his last visit to Maine. He has cruised in the Upper Magalloway district for many seasons and has always got one. Not so this time. Many were seen but none stopped.

The good doctor wouldn't return empty handed so he commandeered his guide Edwin Story, usually called "Doc," for his last hunt to go home with him. He did it and gently enjoyed the visit. He even got a front page position story in the Daily Courier.

"Doc," however prefers being a citizen of Wilson's Mills, Maine than living in Orange, N. J. or any other city, with all its modern conveniences, fuss and feathers.

He has returned to his wilderness home and is much pleased with his visit.

Papers and Books from a By-gone Age

Fred C. Weston of Bolster's Mills Shows Us a Collection of Antiques

Many of these articles have been in the family for years and date back to his grandfather who preserved the relics with great care.

A dollar greenback bearing the name Solon P. Chase, issued by act of July 11, 1862 is a curious paper, also the ten cent silver plates common in the days of the rebellion is another keepsake.

A note quite out of the ordinary is worded thus: "Received from my beloved wife, Catherine Haskell, one cow and calf, which he agrees to return at lapse of 3 years in same condition. Wm. Haskell, witnesses, John Brackett, Jacob Haskell, Otisfield, May 10, 1774."

The annual report for the town of Otisfield in 1873, printed at the News Office, Bridgton is in make up not unlike present day reports. Selectmen were J. K. Lovell, James Mains and Moors Hancock. Total valuation $277,261.00; No. taxable polls 231; no. inhabitants 1100.

"Onward and Upward" was the motto of "The Hillsdale Gazette," published by the students of the Hillsdale school, at Bolster's Mills. Mr. Weston has Vol. 1, No. 1, issued in November 1859, containing eight pages devoted to local literary geniuses. No advertising matter found on the sheet. An editorial states that the school opened in the Maple Row neighborhood in 1857 and removed to Bolster's Mills village in the spring of 1858. There are no sessions recorded other than those in the district school with sixty registered. Total number since the commencement 234. Tuition per term was $2.50 and $3.50, board $1.50 and $2.00 per week extra.

A small pamphlet, entitled "Confessions in Faith and Covenant" of the Congregational church of Otisfield, and Harrison as adopted by the Otisfield society, Nov. 19, 1814, and by Harrison on June 20, 1834. According to this record the Otisfield church was organized on Nov. 2, 1814, and was organized Nov. 23, 1797 with eight members. Rev. Thomas Roby was installed pastor and dismissed Sept. 4, 1810. There was no settled minister until Nov. 2, 1814 when Rev. Josiah G. Merrill was placed in charge of the flock, and the covenant accepted. There were ten members at that time. When the forms for the pamphlet closed in 1834, the total membership for twenty years was 152, nineteen had died, twenty were dismissed and two communicated, leaving 111 in good standing. The Harrison Congregational Church organized Feb. 15, 1822. Started with eleven members, three united that year. There was a struggle until 1830 when eleven were received with membership. Two years later sixteen united. For seven years ending Nov. 17, 1838, fifty-one more were added. In the Old Testament have been illustrated with wood cuts similar to modern bibles and primary school stories.

A small book containing twenty-four pages was a masterpiece for the year 1818. This was published by Coolidge Hale in Hartford, Hamlen & Newton, Printers. The title is "A New Hieroglyphical Bible for the Amusement and Instruction of Children."

In the Old Testament have been illustrated with wood cuts similar to modern bibles and primary school stories.

The Old Farmer's Almanac for 1805 has a familiar appearance as subsequent editions follow closely the original make-up. Perhaps the striking contrast is for "s" used according to rules for spelling at the time. As what is now Oxford County was a part of York, the Almanac imparts the information that "Probate Court is held at Fryeburg on Friday and Saturday immediately preceding the Court of Common Pleas in August. Some thirty-one stage routes are listed for trunk lines radiating from Fryeburg, in the District of Maine, and from Portland to Wisconsin was of sufficient importance to have a place in the list.

A home-made account book covering several months in 1794 fails to disclose the owner's name or residence. Documentary evidence shows that Johnathan Armstrong owned it. It is a "cold put in my pasture"; Samuel Whitney was "letter" to one quintal of fish 10.4s.; Thomas Knight was taxed 10s. for seven hundred lbs.; Job Knight was in debt for fish, a hat, corn and one "payer of trowers"; James Higgins was charged with one "payer of shews, a shirt, making a payer of trowers" and a list of commodities including fish and barley.

GREENWOOD CENTER

Mr. and Mrs. Willie Morgan and family, of Bryant Pond, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Cole and family, Ransom and Elmer Cole, visited at Daniel Cole's, Thanksgiving Day.

Nicholas Harithas of Mechanic Falls spent the holiday in deer on his last visit to Maine. Alfonso Cole of West Paris has been cutting wood for Elmer Cole.

Roy Martin of East Andover spent the holiday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Martin.

Louis and Mary Martin visited the week end with Lucy Cushman, at Shelburne, N. H.

"Seventy Miles from a Railroad"

The Founding of a Bank

We are soon to print the story: "Starting a Bank 70 Miles from a Railroad." It relates the experiences of Silas H. Burnham of Lincoln, Neb., in opening a bank at Broken Bow, that state, with great care.

The article was printed in the Northwestern Banker of November and we are waiting permission to reprint. This is Mr. Burnham's home town and many of his associates in his chain of banks in Nebraska. Also Mr. L. H. Jewett, cashier of the bank, went from this vicinity. The story cannot fail to be of interest to our readers. Watch for it.

KEZAR FALLS

Thanksgiving Festivities—Charles Hubbard Dead at 35 Years of Age, Was Former Guard at White House.

Dr. McCabe, accompanied by his mother, Mrs. (Carleton) Fox was called to Saco last week by the death of her mother's brother, Judge Snow.

Clifton Stanley, principal of a high school in Saco, spent Thanksgiving with his brother, Neal Stanley, of Bates, also shared in the festivities.

Malcolm Stanley of Bowdoin College, and Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Stanley, his sister, Carolyn of Bates, Doris, teacher in the high school in South Paris, and Clifford, one of the teachers in the High School, were all home for Thanksgiving.

Mr. and Mrs. Olin Banks entertained at their hospitable home, Mrs. Charles Westworth, Howard Westworth, Frank Westworth, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Westworth and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fox and their daughter, Constance.

George Bidson of Edoon, Texas, his sister, Eleanor, of Bradford Academy, Hiram, children of Mr. and Mrs. Myron Bidson, were home for Thanksgiving.

Rev. Arthur Callaghan and family were entertained by Mrs. Callaghan's sister in East Oxford.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Garner, their two boys, Alton and John, and Ruth Evelyn, daughter of Katherine Gibb School, of Boston, were home for Thanksgiving.

Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Devens of Portland.

Allen M. Chellis of Portland, Margaret Chellis of Colby, and Mrs. W. H. U. Ruth Palmer of Gorham Normal and Lillian Giles of Bates were among the numbers giving Kazar Falls people a chance to be thankful, on their National Anniversary.

Charles Hubbard, aged 35 years, passed away Wednesday, the 24th. He was a veteran of the Civil War and a member of the Knights of Pythias, an active man in his younger days and much liked by all whom he came in contact with.

For several years he served as a guard in the White House, Washington, D. C. He was also popular with the traveling public when keeping the hotel here.

He leaves a wife, two daughters, Mrs. Daniel H. H. of Malden, Mass., and Mrs. Walter of Glen Elder, Kansas, and one son, Frank, who has greatly comforted his bereaved parents. The services which were private were held at his late home, Friday afternoon, the 26th.

Funeral services were held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Kenyon at South Paris, Thanksgiving Day.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred McKen and children spent Thanksgiving day with Mr. and Mrs. James Guphill.

A large flock of geese passed over this town, Nov. 26.

Mrs. Percy Adams and Mrs. Otis Cobb visited their sister, Mrs. John Adams, Monday afternoon, at West Stoneham.

There were a number of Knights from Hallowell, Me., of P. of East Stoneham went to Hamlin Lodge at South Paris, Friday night. They went with Winfield McAlister in the stage truck. It was rainy, but all were happy inside the truck. There were some of the grand officers there. They all gave an interesting talk.

A large number of the other members were called on to make a speech, the toastmaster told them that all who were called on must make some kind of a speech or go through the hot oven. We all knew what that meant, so there were some good talks. We had a very good time, and it was a very good thing to visit each other. We wish more of the members had gone.

Mrs. George Kenison of South Paris visited her sister, Mrs. Percy Adams, Thursday night and Friday.

Arthur Meserve of Norway and Otis Cobb went to Bethel, Saturday, on business.

Mary Cobb of Norway visited her sister, Mrs. James Guphill, Saturday.

EAST FRYEBURG

Big Grange Meeting Expected—Lewis Walker Has Some Foxes.

At the last grange meeting all officers were present and 39 members. The 1st and 2nd degrees were conferred and the Thanksgiving program was enjoyed. At the next meeting on Friday evening, the 3rd and 4th degrees will be conferred and officers elected. A big meeting is expected.

The Denmark high school presented their drama "Valley Farm" at the Grange Hall, Tuesday evening.

L. W. Pike and family were Thanksgiving guests of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Osmond.

Edward Pingree of Denmark was in the town, recently, buying livestock and hogs.

Adm. M. Harnden has returned from Westbrook.

Walter Sanborn was in Portland over the week end.

Shirley Brown is at Sawyer's river, running the engine in the lumber mill. Burton Rose is also there at work.

Lewis Walker has received the foxes he bought in Miridage, and is much pleased with them.

OXFORD—FORE STREET

Yes, She Has Returned—News from California.

"Oh, Fore Street News! Guess Flora has returned." Yes, she returned to her home, Sunday, after seven weeks' visit with relatives in Norway and Upton.

Monday, Flora Cummings, Mrs. Mary Allen and Miss Iva Allen went with Frank Watson to Lewiston on business.

Miss Glover, pastor of A. C. Church, Oxford, was a visitor in Oxford, on Fore Street, Tuesday.

The summer homes are closed, though we hear the Keller House is soon to be occupied by ten or twelve people for the winter. All ready goods are being unloaded by the door.

C. Jenkins Cummings, his daughter, Helen, and friend, Miss Pulkkinen of West Paris, were at his mother's, F. Jenkins Cummings', Wednesday afternoon and evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Twitchell and Miss Christina Twitchell motored to Skowhegan, Thanksgiving morning, where they visited Mrs. Melissa Twitchell, Giles and family. Mr. Twitchell and Miss Christina returned the next day. Mr. Twitchell will remain for a longer stay.

Everything else on Oxford Fore Street, seems to be quiet but the weather and the traffic which are rolling along both ways at the same time, though we experience no hurry, and the autos get off this Street before "Cain is raised" thus far.

Word comes from Merced, Calif., from Mrs. Edna Cummings Bell that an auto hit her 4 year old son, passing over him without injury, except a few skin bruises. That her brother and wife, Alanson Cummings, formerly of West Paris, now of Los Angeles, were to spend Thanksgiving week in Merced with her and family.

The Right and Wrong Way to Make Your Will

Many men attempt to draw their own Wills. This is the wrong way to make a Will. Such "homemade" Wills are dangerous for they are written with little knowledge of the legal requirements and phraseology of will making.

If you have written your own Will, take it to your Attorney and have him test it in order to make sure that it complies with all of the requirements of the law and that its legal interpretation carries out your wishes.

The proper way to make a Will is to jot down brief memoranda as to how you wish your estate distributed. Take them to your Attorney for his guidance in drawing your Will. Only a competent Attorney should ever draw a Will.

Ideal Vecto Heater

For Smaller Homes and Other Buildings

Price $99.00

Circulates Healthful Warmth Throughout the Home for the Usual Cost of Heating One Room

The Ideal Vecto Heater is a clean, compact, self-contained heating unit—a perfected, scientific application of nature's way of spreading warmth.

Instead of radiating an intense heat for a short distance in one room only, the Vecto Heater distributes an even, comfortable warmth throughout every room. This it accomplishes by its very extensive and scientifically designed heating surface.

Large volumes of air are continuously warmed at moderate temperatures. In accordance with the natural law of gravitation, the warmed air rises and circulates steadily throughout the home, bringing clean and healthful warmth to every nook and corner. The Ideal Vecto Heater thus actually warms and circulates the entire body of air in a home, six to ten times each hour. Yet because of its special, exclusive features of design, it consumes no more coal than is ordinarily used by old-fashioned heaters to warm one room!

Guests at Merritt Savin's were Mr. and Mrs. Merton Kimball and children, Edna, Ethel, Merritt and William of South Waterville, Mr. and Mrs. George Crooker and son, Alton, Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Klament, Ruth Holt, Richard Holt and Edward Holt.

Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Klament of Norway were spending a week with her grandfather, Merritt Savin. Mr. and Mrs. Klament are soon to go to Palm Beach, Florida, where they have employment. A party of eight went to Albany to Portland, Friday night, to attend the ordination of Mrs. Hilda Ives. The beautiful, impressive service was held in the First Baptist church.

Mrs. Ives was presented with a picture of her father at Hunt's Corner where she has spoken so many words of comfort and inspiration to the people in the past few years that she will be equal to any picture.

Some of the pieces of wood were taken from the large timbers in the roof of the church by Leon Kimball and used to make a frame for the picture. Eugene Andrews of Norway did the work of framing. Mr. Andrews' skill in such work is well known and it was a beautiful finish for the picture. The gift carried with it a measure of love and gratitude for the help she has been to the community, from the heart of all who have known her. The church formerly stood some distance from its present site and near the place where Maitland Bird now lives. History tells us that the first church in Albany was organized Sept. 15, 1803. It is supposed that the church itself was built soon after, although we find record of the exact date. This was taken down in 1877 and the present building was begun that year and dedicated in 1878. The pieces of wood were taken from some of the large timbers which had been the frame of the old building and were perfectly sound for all their great age, which must be all of 125 years. The timbers seem to be good for 125 more. As we look into the future we wonder who will take up the care of this church when the hands that have so faithfully and with so much affection, labored to keep it perfect are folded. We are sure that others will come after them, who will be equally as true and faithful to the trust as they have proved themselves to be. Those in the party who went to Portland were Mr. and Mrs. Roy Ward, well known, Arthur, Mr. and Mrs. James Kimball, Mr. and Mrs. Abel Allen, Mr. and Mrs. Alta Bird, Howard Allen went with Rev. W. I. Bull of North Waterville.
